For World No.1 spinner Sophie Ecclestone it's a first captaincy role: "I'm buzzing to be captaining Manchester Originals this year. The Hundred is such a great competition to take part in and I can't wait to lead the girls out at Emirates Old Trafford. I like what we've done in the draft, we've got the makings of a world class side, and hopefully our fans will come out in their numbers as ever to cheer us on."

Tom Abell, who's moved from Birmingham Phoenix to join Mike Hussey in Cardiff, is also looking forward to the challenge: "I jumped at the opportunity to come and take a leadership role with Mike here at Welsh Fire. I'm really excited by the challenge that lies in front of us and we're both really keen to bring some success to Welsh Fire. We did some really great work at the draft and it's going to be really enjoyable to lead this group of players."

The third year of The Hundred gets underway on Tuesday 1 August with a double-header at Trent Bridge – the first of 34 matchdays that promise high-octane men's and women's sporting action, live music, and a host of family-friendly entertainment.

More than half a million people attended games during The Hundred's second year in 2022, including a record-breaking 271,000 watching live women's fixtures across the competition and more families buying tickets than in 2021.
