The Hundred kit launch 2025 – the action-packed competition gets its latest revamp

The Hundred has today released eight new playing kits for 2025, with the latest designs going on sale a little over a month before the fifth year of the competition begins.

The New Balance kits, which are made from 100% recycled materials and fully recyclable, feature New Balance's NB DRY fast-drying technology which wicks moisture away from the body.

This year, the kits will see Toyota on the sleeve, alongside KP Snacks' brands which will continue to feature on the front of the shirts.

Toyota have deepened their relationship with cricket in England and Wales by featuring on The Hundred kits from 2025, meaning they will provide ever-present support for the sport across all formats of the game. Extending the partnership will support Toyota's aims of fostering the growth of grassroots participation nationwide, encompassing all ages, abilities, and backgrounds.

The Hundred's latest designs sit at the intersection of sport and style, and take inspiration from fashion editorials, music culture, and the cities the kits represent, whilst adding a lifestyle feel for everyday wear.

The new kits will be on display first in the opening game of the competition, a double-header and local derby at Lord's between London Spirit and Oval Invincibles on Tuesday 5 August.

The Hundred returns this August with action-packed, unmissable cricket, fusing world-class cricket with blockbuster entertainment.✕
